DISCLOSURE SCHEDULE

As of the date of this Amendment, the Company contemplates including the following disclosures in its Form 10-Q for the quarterly period ended March 31, 2013.

Warning Letter Matters

Warning Letter (April 2010) and Related Matters

In April 2010, Hospira received a Warning Letter from the FDA ("2010 Warning Letter") in connection with the FDA's inspections of Hospira's pharmaceutical and device manufacturing facilities located in Clayton, North Carolina, and Rocky Mount, North Carolina. In the 2010 Warning Letter, the FDA cited current good manufacturing practice deficiencies related to particulate in certain emulsion products at the Clayton facility and the failure to adequately validate the processes used to manufacture products at the Rocky Mount facility. The 2010 Warning Letter also asserted other inadequacies, including procedures related to the Quality Control unit, investigations and medical reporting obligations. The 2010 Warning Letter does not restrict production or shipment of Hospira's products from these facilities.

Since issuing the 2010 Warning Letter, the FDA has completed multiple follow-up inspections at both the Clayton and Rocky Mount facilities. In March 2013, the FDA issued a Form 483 listing observations after inspection of the Rocky Mount facility which identified further areas for remediation and improvement. A number of the observations deal with matters for which remediation was already underway but not yet complete or are matters previously self-identified for remediation by Hospira that were scheduled to be addressed in the latter part of Hospira's remediation and modernization plans. Hospira responded to the specific FDA observations received in March 2013, and continues to seek input from the FDA regarding the scope and timing of remediation efforts at the facility.

Warning Letter (August 2012) and Related Matters

In August 2012, Hospira received a Warning Letter from the FDA related to the FDA's April 2012 inspection of Hospira's La Aurora de Heredia, Costa Rica device manufacturing facility and corresponding Form 483 ("2012 Warning Letter"). In the 2012 Warning Letter, the FDA cited current good manufacturing practice deficiencies related to the failure to correct and prevent recurrence of nonconforming product; the failure to implement changes in procedures needed to correct and prevent identified quality problems; the failure to evaluate suppliers on their ability to meet requirements; the failure to establish adequate procedures for acceptance of incoming product; and the failure to maintain appropriate device history records. The Costa Rica site manufactures most of Hospira's infusion devices and administration sets.

In November 2012, the FDA issued an import alert that prohibits the importation of Symbiq™ infusion pumps into the U.S., and on February 13, 2013, the FDA expanded the import alert. The expansion received on February 13, 2013 prohibits the importation into the U.S. of the Plum™, GemStar™, and LifeCare PCA™ infusion pumps which are manufactured in Hospira's Costa Rica facility. The FDA's import alert did not restrict the importation of Hospira's other medication management products, including consumables or Hospira's other infusion pumps accessories. Following the February FDA notification, other regulatory agencies have restricted the supply of new Plum™, and GemStar™ infusion pumps into certain international markets for an initial period of 90 days due to the number of current field safety notices and the recent temporary suspension of Hospira's infusion pump certifications. Hospira cannot predict when the FDA import alert, or other regulatory restrictions or suspensions for the above infusion devices will end. The FDA import alert is not expected to be lifted until re-inspection of the Costa Rica facility, and perhaps other related facilities, occurs and the FDA is satisfied with the results. For certain international markets, after the 90 days, the certifications suspension may be lifted or extended, or the certificates could be revoked. In the interim, Hospira intends and continues to support the repair and service of all impacted pumps to existing customers.

Hospira's Responses to Warning Letters

Hospira takes these matters seriously and has responded fully, and in a timely manner, to the FDA's Warning Letters (the FDA's Warning Letters are publicly available on the FDA's website). Hospira has submitted comprehensive remediation plans to address the items raised in the 2010 Warning Letter and 2012 Warning Letter and related subsequent Form 483 observations. The remediation plans involve commitments by Hospira to enhance its facilities, employee training, quality processes and procedures, and technology. For certain remediation plans, Hospira has engaged third-party experts to assist with the remediation activities, established remediation project management teams, deployed new site leadership, and is hiring additional permanent employees in the manufacturing operations and quality organizations. Hospira will continue to work through the commitments made in its remediation plans or responses and interact and work closely with the FDA to ensure that all items noted in the Warning Letters and related subsequent Form 483s are appropriately addressed.

While Hospira has submitted remediation plans, the plans are subject to update and revision based on issues encountered by Hospira or its third-party consultants during the remediation process, or on further interaction with the FDA or other regulatory bodies. Until the violations are corrected, Hospira may be subject to additional regulatory action by the FDA or other regulatory bodies. Any such actions could significantly disrupt our ongoing business and operations and have a material adverse impact on our financial position and operating results. There can be no assurance that the FDA, or other regulatory agencies, will be satisfied with Hospira's response or corrective actions.

The above disclosures include information about Form 483 observations relevant to the facilities subject to a warning letter. All of Hospira's manufacturing facilities and related operations are subject to routine FDA inspections and some of those facilities have received Form 483 observations or FDA-issued untitled letters or comparable inspection results from other governmental regulatory agencies, which are not included above. Hospira is working to ensure all of its facilities and quality policies, procedures and processes align with the commitments made to the FDA, and as a result, Hospira has incurred and will continue to incur additional costs for strengthening quality, compliance and production processes at other facilities. For example, third-party oversight and consulting costs for remediation activities have been and will continue to be incurred at a number of other manufacturing sites.

Device Strategy

Hospira intends to announce its Device Strategy on or about April 30, 2013, an initiative that establishes a streamlined and modernized product portfolio to address customer needs and position Hospira for future innovation and growth, while supporting continued advancement of device remediation, including quality improvement efforts. Actions over the next two to three years include investments in (i) modernizing and streamlining Hospira's installed base of devices through retirement and replacement programs, (ii) strengthening its device quality systems/processes and (iii) developing next generation technology with additional safety features to support further modernization of its installed base.

The Device Strategy builds on Hospira's recently completed comprehensive device review of its global installed base of infusion pumps. Hospira communicated the new strategy to the FDA and other global regulatory agencies, and is working with these agencies to gain alignment.

Under the retirement and replacement actions, Hospira will focus on retiring less robust and/or older pump technology from the market and initiating customer replacement programs. Hospira anticipates, among alternatives to be provided to customers, that it will offer customer sales allowances and/or accommodations which may be used as a credit for transition to alternative technology. The majority of the activity includes:

- retirement of the Symbiq™ infusion device and older legacy Plum™ pumps, replacing these devices with Plum A+™ pumps and future innovations to the Plum™ platform currently under development;
 - retirement of GemStar™ ambulatory pumps, replacing these devices with Sapphire™ pumps in markets where the device is available, such as Canada and certain countries in Europe, and in the U.S. and other markets upon regulatory clearance. Hospira markets and distributes the Sapphire™ pump through a distribution agreement with Q Core Medical, Ltd.; and

- retirement of older legacy PCA pumps, replacing these devices with LifeCare PCA™ or Sapphire™ pumps.

Hospira will continue to support the affected pumps during the retirement and replacement period.

In connection with the Device Strategy, Hospira expects to incur aggregate charges related to these actions in the range of approximately $300 million to $350 million on a pretax basis. The total estimated aggregate charges include pre-tax cash costs of approximately $240 million to $290 million. Major types of cash costs include the following: (i) customer sales allowances; (ii) customer accommodations, contract termination, and pump collection and destruction costs and (iii) pump retirement and replacement program administration, quality systems/process improvement costs and other costs. Further, of the total pre-tax charges, approximately $60 million relates to non-cash charges for various asset charges, primarily pump inventory charges, other pump-related asset impairments and accelerated depreciation on production equipment, and Hospira-owned pumps in service.

The charges incurred for the above Device Strategy, primarily in the Americas segment, were reported as follows:

(dollars in millions)	Three Months Ended March 31, 2013	Line Item in the Condensed Consolidated Statement of (Loss) Income
Customer sales allowances	$ 104.3	Net sales
Contract termination and collection and destruction costs	23.6	Cost of products sold
Inventory charges	48.9	Cost of products sold
Other asset impairments	4.7	Restructuring and impairment
Total charges	$ 181.5

The amount, timing and recognition of additional charges associated with the Device Strategy over the anticipated time period will be affected by the nature of spending and the occurrence of commitments and triggering events, among other factors.

The Device Strategy charges above are exclusive of other device product-related and comprehensive product review charges.
